[President]

these transfers. Transfers should therefore not be regarded as normal and will generally be made only if an officer has abused his position. It has to be borne in mind that Government will not keep any officer in one place who takes advantage of his position and his relations with the people to obtain illegitimate benefits for himself or to satisfy his sentiments of hostility to some or of excessive friendliness to others. Otherwise, the policy of the Government is — it is a definite departure from what has been happening in the past — that officers be kept in their places as long as it is in public interests not to change them.

MR. PULIYOOR T. P. VELAYUDHAN PILLAI: May I know from the Government whether these officers mentioned in the list are persons against whom there was absolutely no complaint by the people in the places?

VAIDYASASTRAKUSALA DR. MRS. M. POONEN LUKOSE: Some of these officers are persons against whom there were no complaints. In some cases not only were there no complaints but, some of them have earned very good reputation in their stations and the Public have testified to their popularity.
